Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg Dies, Reigniting the Case of Merrick Garland and Inflaming Concern Over Roe V. Wade: Why Neither Matter

Why would you feel morally responsible for someone else killing their own kid? It makes zero sense.

I hate to sound like Trump, but the most overrated Justice on the court has kicked the bucket, and good riddance. I hope her corpse is devoured by maggots for all eternity. In any event, there are two debates that have brought to the fore as a result of her death. Obviously, Trump is the president and we have an election coming up in about two months, so the Supreme Court will be an issue going forward. Mitch McConnell, the Republican leader of the Senate where Scotus nominees are confirmed, has already said that Trump's nominee will get a vote. Contrast this with the death of Antonin Scalia a few months before the 2016 election, when Republicans also controlled the Senate, McConnell at that time blocked Obama from a vote on his nominee, Merrick Garland. Even Lindsay Graham said in 2016 to use his words against him, that if a Justice died and a Republican was Potus leading up to an election year, that they would allow the new President to pick the nominee.

Regardless, it is clear from the swamp that Trump drained and found his cabinet at the bottom, that no Scotus pick will be Based™ or the friend of white people. You may recall when Justice Kennedy resigned, the likes of Ann Coulter where screaming for Amy Cohen Barrett to be nominated. She adopted kids from Haiti to raise alongside her own white ones. Tom Cotton, who was on a recent list of 20 potential nominees that were released a few weeks ago, has received a large amount of donations/support from Jewish groups. And as all republicans who claim to be prolife, he loves to send young white American men to die in wars for Israel and Exxon Mobile.

The other issue that has been raised, is the issue of Roe vs Wade. It is fair to say that Ginsburg, whatever you want to think of her, was a champion for women's rights, in the exact way that phrase is understood by the left. In that regard, it is a huge blow to such causes. However, the prolife people are simply wrong in their obsession with abortion or with Roe. First off, Roe did not, I repeat, DID NOT make abortion legal. It simply made it a constitutional right. Abortion laws were non-existent before that. In other words, it was not culturally an issue, so the law said nothing about it. In fact, most states it was legal, in the sense that you would definitely never be prosecuted for either having one or performing/funding/assisting at one. What Roe did was make it unconstitutional for states to ban it outright. However, states could restrict it, as some have unsuccessfully tried. And by unsuccessfully, I mean either the courts have shot them down, or they aren't enforced anyway.

There is also a misguided notion that making abortion illegal would accomplish some great goal. Many say it would end promiscuous sex. However, there is still birth control. Others say it is wrong. OK, but the people having abortions are bad people. So, what if bad people do bad things? Why should I feel guilty about it? Some say it is dysgenic. No, it is actually the opposite. The people having abortions are the precise people we need less of. If my enemies eliminate themselves through degenerate behavior, who cares? Who cares if our enemies turn the bayonet on themselves? One less enemy to deal with, less evil in the world, easier struggle for the rest of us. Some say it is a crime against children. I answer that the people having abortions have no business having children anyway. Why would you want someone whose instincts when they pregnant is to kill their offspring to be raising those offspring alongside yours? How is this not an insane proposal?

Look, there are far too many humans on the planet, most of them Jews or non-whites. But there are plenty of white people who are our enemies too. Even if no abortion ever took place from this day forward, white people would still be fucked royally. Our enemies would just be more numerous. Its estimated that more black babies have been aborted than there are black people alive in America right now. Something like more than 50 million black abortions and there's about 48 million blacks in America right now. Imagine more than double the amount of black people in America! White people would have been exterminated through race mixing, violence and murder long ago. And considering you pay for them to breed out of control, the white population would be in dire straits concerning their replacement levels.

There are people out there, in the name of Christianity or decency no less, who will defend the idea of an infinite number of humans. Wanting our enemies gone by any means necessary is the definition of sanity at this point. Look, I'm not going to give money to PP, nor am I supporting abortion. I'm just saying, every bad thing has a good effect somewhere. The good effect of abortion is that the wrong kind of people will not be creating more people we will have to fight against in order to have an all-white non-degenerate society. Rejoice in that at least. But these people who believe that human life is intrinsically valuable (it is NOT) are the reason aid the third world will never be cut, the welfare state will never be diminished, third-world immigration will continue unabated and whites will be exterminated in a few generations. Thanks to the collapse of children mortality, either is overcrowded. There are too many fucking people in this world, and everything is clogged up as a result. The lines in the grocery store are too long; the road traffic is bumper to bumper; the parking lots are jammed; the inner cities are packed; the ecosystems are collapsing; economies struggle to keep up with rising number of seniors; whites aren't having kids because they have to pay for everyone else to invade their countries and have endless babies who then kill theirs.

What fucking part of this is okay? What aspect of this world is one that we should preserve? Who the hell made up the rule that redacting people is always wrong? If you think human life is intrinsically valuable, you are just a liberal: a sick person who has imbibed the human rights dogma of the enlightenment. Dignity is tied to your behavior, your morality, which in the racial context, is genetic in origin. Some groups are moral superior to others. People are moral responsible for their own abortions, and they only people having abortions are those who support it. If my enemy rek'ds themselves, all the more reason to not counter signal them. And there is zero percent change that any nominee will do anything for us, so I don't care.
